Imperial ground of the opposition of the emperor, though he is a mere child. These difficulties call for much pacomplains that opinm is forced upon her, but since our treaty of 1880, Brazil and Russia have made treaties forbidding the trade to their subjects. Prince Lung declared to the speaker that, if they could stop the importation, they would suppress the growth of the poppy in China. China regards it as a handicap, because the maximum and the proposed treating the proposed in the proposed treating treating the proposed treating treating the proposed treating treatin as a handicap, because the maximum duty that she can on importations is fixed by the treaties with foreign powers. lately has seemed most seriously to threaten our relations with China, has been that of Chinese immigration to this country. But no great difficulty was found in securing, by treaty, the right of our government to regulate the immigration in a reasonable manner, indeed, most of the British-Austrian colonies have, without treaties, practically prohibited immigration without provoking any complaint from the Chinese government. Nothing indicates that, under the reasonable execution of the treaty any ill realing toward the United States will be engend-ered, but the speaker was not con-firmness and kindness, and we should press them to relieve the inland trade of its burden. We should convince them that we are ready to relieve them of the restraints which the treaties laid upon their control of their own foundry, just as rapidly as the safety of the property and lives of citizens will allow.
